readily inderstand why Comptroller Fitch could not comply with our request." In the figures which are printed to day will be noticed, under the date of Peril 24 and May 8, the name of James Dempsey, who collected on two vouchers for $525 and $875, making a total of $1,400. The charge, which seems excessive, was brought to the attention not only of Comptroller Fitch, but ex-Judge Tappen and President Clausen. of the Park Board, and it was said that the contractors furnished the plant, as well as the men and fuel, for the rock wen as the men and then, for the rock-drilling machines. Mr. Clausen further added that the work Dempsey per-formed was an absolute necessity in order to keep the other men at work. The men had from $90 to $100 each.

The men are all well dressed, and many wear diamonds. They were detained upon information from Washington to the effect that two wealthy brothers, named Hoedmaker, were coming to this country with capital to start a big diamond factory in Brookiyn, and that they would bring diamond cutters under contract with them.

The Hoedmaker Bros. were released earlier in the day.
